Downsizing in a move is becoming more and more common. Whether you're losing the big family home for a more manageable condo (the percentage of Americans over 65 is set to double by 2060), saving money on a smaller home, moving in with a partner, leaving suburban life for the city, or just going minimalist, you're not alone.

When Should Retirees Downsize Their Homes?

If you know you're moving from a three-bedroom home to a two-bedroom home, don't move three beds, three dressers, and three bedside tables to your new place. It costs money to haul big furniture, and if there's nowhere to put it, you'll just have to pay for a storage unit.
