TimesTen is an in-memory, relational database management system with persistence and recoverability. Originally designed and implemented at Hewlett-Packard labs in Palo Alto, California, TimesTen spun out into a separate startup in 1996 and was acquired by Oracle Corporation in 2005. All data within a TimesTen database is located in physical memory, which means that no data operation requires disk I/O. This is unlike traditional disk-optimized relational databases such as the Oracle Database, DB
